Interval House

Create Your Legacy of Hope

How to leave a gift in your will to Interval House

Many of us wish we could do more to help our favourite charity. And 1.5 million Canadians have already discovered that there's a way to do more than they ever dreamed they could. If you are considering giving to Interval House, then you already know that as Canada's first shelter for abused women and children, we are a pioneering institution serving the community for over 50 years. We are committed to ensuring that vulnerable women and their children are supported to build a future free from violence and filled with hope.

You see, we spend our lifetime building our careers, paying bills, looking after loved ones and saving for a rainy day. We think carefully about our money — how we choose to spend, save and invest it. We may also use our money to build assets like a home, vacation property or stock portfolio. Sometimes, these assets can grow to be considerable over time.

This is why a gift in your will can be such a powerful legacy of hope. It enables you to make use of assets in your estate (like your home, for example) and allows you to make a transformative gift — the greatest gift of your lifetime. It is a promise to support the progress of women and children escaping abuse for future generations, and a final opportunity to make a lasting gift to a cause you care deeply about.

> We can all do our part to give now, and also consider how we want to be remembered, the legacy we want to leave. And part of that, for me, is a legacy of love by making sure that I included Interval House in my will. - Sylvia, Legacy Donor and Cornerstone Society member

Join the Interval House Cornerstone Society

When you choose to include Interval House in your estate plans, you will become part of an exceptional group — people who will be remembered for their commitment to ensuring the safety and hope for women and children for generations to come.

Cornerstone Society members are regularly invited to join us for special events, shelter tours and other exciting opportunities so that you can see the impact of your giving today and tomorrow.
